

The Wyoming Business Council, along with the Wyoming Department of Education, wants to know how connected Wyoming residents are to the internet – and we've developed a survey to gauge students' access to broadband connectivity.

The Student Connectivity Survey is a first step toward the objective of providing robust broadband internet services to all Wyoming residents, including student households.

It's crucial that we hear from as many Wyoming residents as possible to assess this broadband availability data. Access to broadband internet service for everyone makes Wyoming a better place to live and work.

We ask that parents and guardians of all Wyoming school-aged children participate in the survey.
